

5 December 1952

At the request of [redacted] we have again reviewed your application for employment with the Central Intelligence Agency and I am sorry to have to report that the situation has not changed since we last wrote to you. We do not at this time have a suitable opening.

Thank you for your interest in the Agency and be assured that if our situation should change we will have your application available for consideration. If at any time you should be in Washington, we would be glad to talk to you but by no means make a special trip for this.

Very truly yours, [redacted]
